CENTRAL RECORD.

LOUIS LANDRAM.

Lancaster, Ky. March 6, 1903.

The editor was honored with an invitation to a dinner to be given by the Louisville Commercial Club, at the Galt House, in that city this, Thursday evening. It was with much reluctance that we sent our regrets, as the Commercial Club always puts the big pot in the little one, and a glorious good time was in store. This organization is doing great good for the advancement of the Falls City, and works diligently to advertise the city and state. If the people of Kentucky would catch step with the procession and do one-half as much for the state Kentucky would soon be one of the leading states in the Union. The trouble is, we have too much politics and not enough business. If every fellow would hustle for his state like he does to get some little whippersnapper into office, it would bring about what the Louisville Commercial Club is seeking to accomplish.

The Harrodsburg Herald voices the sentiments of all right thinking people when it says Kentuckians have long since passed that period of their political history, when they chose their state officers exclusively on national issues. Any man coming before the democratic party in this state demanding a platform on which to win victory next November simply admits that his democracy is of such an uncertain variety that it stands for practically nothing. All good citizens, be they democrats or what not, want a clean, economical administration of the state government. An administration in line with the new spirit of commercial enterprise now bestirring its citizens. Begone with all your clap trap of national issues, get down to fundamentals and to the business in hand.

A woman died lately in a New York hospital from starvation. When she collapsed she was standing in a line of prisoners in a police court waiting to be tried for the heinous offense of asking help in the streets for her extremity of need. Several papers have taken this fact as a text to say mean things about Andrew Carnegie, wonder why he didn't give her a library, and other such clap trap. We will venture to say that had Mr. Carnegie known of that woman's wants, he would have given her a house and stocked it with provisions. Of course rich people cannot go about the streets listening to every beggar. Mr. Carnegie has proven the fact that he is a big-hearted man, and if other rich men would do one-tenth for charity that he does, the world would derive benefit from their having been born into it.

His many friends are delighted with the clean, thoughtful and faithful service Hon. George Gilbert is giving in Congress. It was our pleasure to meet Mr. Gilbert several years ago,
